Fitbit versa 2 bands

Are you ready to give Fitbit Versa a refreshed style? Plenty of stylish accessory wristbands are available to instantly update the look of your activity tracker, including colorful silicone, leather and stainless steel mesh. Or maybe your old team broke and you need to know how to replace it. Read on to learn how to change your Fitbit Versa team. Here's how to change the band on the Fitbit Versa series activity tracker, which includes Versa, Versa 1/2, Versa Lite and Versa SE. Fitbit Look at the inside of the Fitbit Versa band and find two fast pins connected on both sides of the Fitbit watch case. Holding the Fitbit case in one hand, press the release pin (shown in blue) with the tip of your finger and pull the band away from the watch case. It should release easily. Repeat this process on the other side of the band. Never force anything when changing the Fitbit band, as unintended damage may void the warranty. If you're having trouble changing your band, contact Fitbit support. Fitbit When you're ready to attach a new wristband, check the position of your watch case to your wrist and make sure you attach the strap with the correct orientation. Hold the watch case so that the interior is facing you. Now hold the band at right angles and place the band pin (on the side opposite the quick release lever) in the bottom notch on the watch case. Fitbit Press the quick release pin to fully insert the band and attach it to the top of the watch clip until it clicks into place. Repeat this process on the other side of the band.
